It's All In The Atmosphere

When is a rooming house not a rooming house? Sounds like one of the conundrums of our childhood, but that is a problem that was tossed into the laps of some eight per cent of Carmel voters who attended the meeting in Sunset School Monday evening, called by a small group of citizens. The purpose was elimination, change, relaxation, or something, of Carmel's zoning ordinance.

It's all in the definition, they said. Nobody in Carmel wants rooming houses outside the business zone—perish the thought! But homes, pleasant, attractive homes that will receive visitors—for a consideration, of course—and help them to enjoy this unique village, that's the idea! Rooming houses, never! It's all in the spirit, the atmosphere, that indefinable something that makes a home—and will make the tourists want to keep coming year after year. So much spirit, so much atmosphere and you can take in all the paying guests you like without spoiling the village or having a vulgar rooming house. You can even move into the kitchen and rent out—no, accept guests in all the other rooms of the house. Stop at three paying guests? By no means, or where would the eager music lovers who come from afar for the Bach Festival lay their enchanted heads? Besides, such a restriction is an interference with the normal American rights guaranteed by the Constitution — or is it?

What about the rights of the citizens who have built pleasant homes here, spacious and expensive or small and garden-framed, who prefer that property values be maintained and the streets be not cluttered up with numerous cars of neighbors' paying guests? How about the well-to-do retired resident who suddenly discovers that his neighborhood has become populous with not-rooming-houses? Does not the man who has paid a high price for his home deserve to have his property saved from such deterioration?

Does a person deserve more consideration who came here, and finding lots in the business zone too high, invested in a forty-foot lot in the more reasonably-priced adjacent residence area, built a roomy house, and now asks the city council to relax the zoning restrictions so that he may harbor more than three guests? Or must parents who come be restricted to bringing one child with them? (Do these not-rooming-houses accept children, anyway?) Or two couples that come here to enjoy a vacation together, must they be inhospitably forced to sleep in two houses instead of one? There were many questions, including sanitation, and how many persons per bathroom is consonant with good, American cleanliness. They were all dumped in the Carmel lap, with a bright promise of a PLAN to be offered for adoption at the next meeting—to be called at an opportune moment—and present to the council for enactment. Q. E. D.—apparently.—L. Lucile Turner.

Monterey And The Convention Of 1849

BY J. WILLIAM MAC LENNAN

PART II

The Reverend Walter Colton, a Yale graduate and a former editor of the North American Review, who came to California as chaplain of the United States warship, Congress, was appointed by the American military commander to rule Monterey as alcalde. A New Englander, he found in Monterey many customs, strange and interesting to him, and came to admire the Montereyans for their gracious manner of living and their generous hospitality; but he could not get used to the fact that they preferred a good time to working, no matter how poor they were.

One of Colton's first acts was to close the "grog shops," fearing the damage which intoxicated American soldiers and sailors might do, especially the volunteers, who were largely a lawless group and hard to control. At once aguardiente (a local brandy) soared in price from 40 or 50 cents a gallon to $4.00, and even $5.00 a gallon. Colton found it harder than he expected to stop the sale of this brandy; drunken soldiers could be put in the guard house, and sailors confined to the ship's brig, but there was no way of punishing those who sold it except by fines, and the higher he made the fines the higher rose the price of brandy.

He was surprised to learn that there was no workhouse in Monterey where drunkards and petty criminals could be confined, and no jails for the more serious offenders. Workhouses and jails were taken for granted in New England, and Colton couldn't see how any town could get along without them. In Monterey, in fact throughout Upper California during the Spanish and Mexican regimes, the custom was to punish white offenders by fines, and to whip the Indians. In the case of more serious crimes, such, for instance as rebellion against the government, the guilty were sometimes ordered to remain in the home of an important official who was made responsible for his good behaviour, and he stayed there often more as a guest than as a prisoner until some occasion for a fiesta or fandango arose and his crime was forgotten. Attempts at revolution were frequent in California during the Mexican period, but battles were usually bloodless, or nearly so, since the men on both sides were related to each other, and the victors would have no peace at home if they had killed some of their wives' relatives.

Colton secured a building for a jail, stopped the whipping of Indians, and adopted the American system of punishment for lawbreakers. This, for the most part, except in the case of certain serious crimes, is based on fines or imprisonment, which usually means fines for those who have money, and imprisonment for the poor. The Alcalde set his prisoners (Indians, Mexican, Spanish, American, usually convicted of horse stealing or cattle stealing for which the penalty for all was the same) to making adobe bricks under the captaincy of the most trusted of the convicts. They had to make at least fifty a day without pay, and received a cent for each brick above that number, which they could spend on Saturday night for anything but "rum." Rum in Colton's vocabulary meant any kind of a drink containing alcohol.

A staid New Englander, the Alcalde was at first annoyed because the Mexican prisoners always begged for their guitars, and in the end he gave in to them. After that the sounds of music, and the words of the folk tunes of California were wafted from the grilled prison windows during the evening and far into the night, such songs as:

"I love Pepa, that's my story;
For she is a dame of honor,
Sets me wild to gaze upon her
At the casement in her glory."*

*From old California songs collected by Charles F. Lummis, quoted with the permission of the

City Tax Rate 30 Per Cent Less Than Last Year

"No increases in expenditure are provided, and the cost to the taxpayer will be about 30 per cent less than it was last year," City Clerk Peter Mawdsley told the council in submitting the budget for June 30, 1949 to June 30, 1950.

"Our city attorney foresaw this last year when we transferred the assessing and collecting to the county, and at that time forecasts indicated a General Fund tax of about 60 cents to carry the expenses for only one-half year to June 30, 1950, plus a coverage for working balance to take care of the lapse of five or six months until the collections were in hand.

"The actual legal way of doing this, however, calls for a tax levy of $1.00 and the giving of a rebate of one-half the tax paid last year. This will leave the net tax bill equal to a rate of about 60 cents for General Fund purposes only, a saving over last year's 89 cents of 29 cents, or nearly 30 per cent.

"The city can do this because it has been working under a revenue program which placed it ahead of the calendar year covered. Now, like other cities, it will be behind and so must finish each fiscal year with a large working balance. Taxes will start coming through from the county treasurer in January on collections up to the first installment delinquent date of December 5.

"It is this working balance that has been provided by adding six months to the normal provision for one year in each fund, remembering that it, in turn, is offset in part by a rebate on the tax bill in the amount of one-half of last year's bill.

"A taxpayer last year with an assessment of $4,000 has a city tax, based on the rate of $1.10, of $44. One half of that is $22.

This year, on the same assessment his tax bill with a rate of $1.27 covering all funds, would be $50.80, less credit from last year of $22, making the next amount of tax bill $28.20, a saving of $15.20."

Sanitary Board To Order Survey For Sewering Hatton Fields, 80 Acres, Walker, Mission Tracts

At its regular meeting next Monday night, August 8, the Carmel Sanitary Board will authorize the district engineer to begin the survey for the sewering of Hatton Fields, Eighty Acres, Walker Tract, the Mission Tract, and the area around Franciscan Way and Lasaer Drive, according to William Satchell, secretary of the board.

Following the survey a plan will be drawn up. The board has a choice of two procedures, to advertise for bids, proceed with the work, and assess the property owners after it is completed, according to the improvement act of 1911, or it may act as it did in the case of the Point and Scenic Drive: make an estimate of cost and then notify the property owners in advance of what their probable assessment will be, in accordance with the 1913 act.

In either case public hearings will be held at which the board will act as a board of equalization and adjustments to hear individual protests on assessments. There is little question of the property owners of the areas protesting the improvement work itself, according to Satchell, since they voted to join the district in an election last May for the specific purpose of having the area sewered.

Sentiment of the property owners in these areas is expressed in a letter, now in the hands of the secretary, which will be read to the board at Monday night's meeting.

Carmel Sanitary Board
Carmel, California
Gentlemen:

The Board of Supervisors having approved the annexation of Hatton Fields and contiguous areas to the Carmel Sanitary District, it is requested that you proceed with the preparation of plans, estimates and bids for the installation in this area.

The need for action in this matter is particularly indicated on Hatton Fields Mesa where continued construction with septic tank installations is increasing the already bad drainage conditions in this area.

This letter is being forwarded by me through the president of Carmel Unincorporated as the initial action in this matter was directed by that organization.

Yours very truly,
Archer M. R. Allen
Captain, U.S.N. (Ret.)
Chairman of Carmel Unincorporated Sewer Committee for this area.

First Indorsement
Carmel, California 27 July 1949.
To Carmel Sanitary District Board

It is believed that the request contained in the basic letter expresses the desire of a majority of property owners living in the area referred to above.

Innumerable inquiries recently received on the installation of the sewer lines, together with the unsatisfactory soil and drainage conditions which jeopardize health and sanitation in this area indicate the interest and urgency which is felt locally in this problem.

Although no general meeting of Carmel Unincorporated has been called to consider a resolution on this subject in view of its localized nature, the large number of members who were listed among the signers of the annexation petition has prompted this office to

The Carmel City Council,
Carmel, California.
Gentlemen:

I read with growing concern of the movement to fight the enforcement of the ordinance restricting to three the number of roomers in a residential zone. Renting rooms is a business and it has grown to such proportions in Carmel that the peace and quiet of the home owners, who are not in this business, is threatened. As anyone knows, property values decline under such circumstances. The room renters had a respite from the ordinance enforcement for nine long years; war years, during which they made so much money they became greedy and unrestrained. Renting rooms to only three persons per house will "not ruin the charm of Carmel or make anyone suffer," contrary to the ad which the room renters inserted in a local paper this week. If every house in Carmel rented rooms to three "paying guests" we would soon have no charm and none but the most undesirable of visitors. Then business would suffer.

Many of us hope that in spite of malicious gossip being circulated about the members of the council and other officials you will stand firm and consider the genuine home owner and not destroy further property values. Such fantastic tales are being told all over town; that the La Playa and Pine Inn are threatened by competition (in trying to secure rooms for summer guests of my own I have often wished this were true); that bribes to certain officials are causing the ordinance enforcement; but why go on? The intelligent see the propaganda behind these charges and we ask our council to stand firm and to protect the rights and property values of the entire community.

Yours very truly,
Blanche C. Semmens.

The above letter was read at the city council meeting Wednesday night in connection with the Real Estate Board's letter requesting a modification of the zoning ordinance. On the mayor's suggestion, the Real Estate Board's request was held over until a later meeting, according to the mayor, because "A study is being made of the subject."

CYO OUTDOOR DANCE

The Catholic Youth Organization will sponsor a mid-summer dance, Saturday, August 13, 9 to 12 p. m., at the Carmel High School tennis courts. Eddie Lubov and his Modernaires will furnish the music. It is to be semi-formal. Call Tony Janda, 1834-W, for bids.

WILDER & JONES IRONMEN IN DOUBLEHEADER TONIGHT

The ambitious W&J Shop softball team is taking on an ambitious schedule tonight when they engage the Police and the Lions Club in a Sunset twin-bill. The Police and W&J tied in their last encounter so a win in tonight's tilt will be a sweet victory. Neither team has lost a game in the second half and the winner will gain a first place tie with the mighty Lions Club. In the second clash, the Lions, with a perfect slate in Adult League play this year, tackle the game W&J crew. If the Lions win, they will be official 1949 Adult League champs and if they lose a playoff will be necessary between the Lions and the winner of the Police-W&J game.

Pitching selections for the first game will probably be Charley Underwood for W&J against Duke Dufur for the Cops. In the main event, Scarlett Truman for W&J against either Chuck Dawson or Paul Clemens for the Lions Club.

PINE CONE HOSTS SAN FRANCISCO SOFTBALL TEAM TOMORROW NIGHT

The best sofeball team in the San Francisco Bay area. That's what Carmel softball fans will take a look at tomorrow night when the West Coast Industries nine invades Sunset Field to do business with the Pine Cone aggregation. As both teams have two top flight pitchers, they will play a doubleheader with the first contest getting under way at 8 o'clock. The San Francisco club has long been a power in Bay area softball and are feared contenders for the state championship each year.

W&J TAKES 1 TO 0 DECISION FROM PINE CONE

A sizzling double down the left-field foul line by Lou Saunders, W&J left fielder scored the only run in seven innings of fast softball between Wilder and Jones and the Pine Cone Wednesday night at Sunset Field in a Bay League contest.

Saunders' telling blow came in the third off Ky Miyamoto. The Pine Cone was unable to score off Clyde Walker, W&J hurler, who was in top form, although they threatened in the sixth but were snuffed out with an attempted steal of home plate.

The loss was the first for the Pine Cone in the second half play of the Bay League.

BOYS' CLUB VARSITY BOWS TO GARNEROS, WIN FROM SALINAS GILBARTS

Perry Brown's hot and cold Boys' Club varsity softball team hung up one victory and showed one defeat for their past week's play. The varsity found the Salinas Gilbarts to their liking and mowed them down, 6-5, but Frank Garnero outsteadied workhorse Walker to give his bakery cohorts a 3-2 margin over the Clubbers. In the Garnero clash, Clyde Walker gave up two hits, while the curve-balling Garnero allowed the Boys' Club five. However, two untimely miscues and base hit in the clutch sewed it up for the bakery.

The Salinas Gilbarts came over to Carmel as winners of the Salinas B division softball league and figured to handle the Carmel boys rather handily. They reckoned without the pitching of ironman Walker in doing their reckoning. Clyde toyed with the Salinas hitters and had them at his mercy whenever he wanted to bear down. That the visitors scored five runs is only because Clyde is big-hearted and likes a close game. Fast scampering on the bases by Clayton Neill played a major part in the six runs scored by the Boys' Club. Clayt tallied two markers by zip and verve on the bases.

SOUTHWELL TOP SCORER AT CRICKET GAME

The Del Monte Cricket Club, lacking the services of three of their best players, George Calvert, John Tyler and Tony Kent, were defeated by the Surrey Club of San Francisco, 99 to 51, at Carmel last Sunday. Jim Southwell, captaining the Del Monte team for the first time, did not allow his responsibilities to weigh too heavily upon him and was top scorer with 11 runs, besides taking two Surrey wickets at a cost of 9.5 runs apiece.

Next Sunday Del Monte entertains the Barbarians Club of San Francisco at Carmel. There will be the usual Thursday evening practice at Carmel, starting at 5 p. m.

HOLE IN ONE

It was all very simple, really. All Fred Hollenbeck did was take his club, tap the little golf ball a good one, and with the rest of his foursome—Joe Hudder, Col. L. W. Glazebrook, and Paul Mercurio—stand back and watch it go. And how it did go! It sailed up around the twelfth, on over the eleventh, on to the tenth where it landed on the green, and then—! "Get out your cameras, boys," said the Hollenbeck caddy casually, "there she is, a hole in one!" And all this took place Tuesday on the tenth green at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, before witnesses—at least four of them.

BOYS' CLUB UNDEFEATED IN WINNING KIDS' LEAGUE

The Giles-tutored Boys' Club Midgets whacked the New Monterey Boys' Club, 3 to 1, last Monday night to win the undisputed title of the Carmel Kids' League. These classy little softballers went through their six-game schedule without tasting defeat. The New Monterey sprouts gave the local boys a terrific struggle until the fifth inning when a pair of walks and singles by Bob Updike and Johnny DeAmaral iced the game

Criticism Leveled At Directors Of Humane Society

Forty-seven members of the Monterey County Humane Society signed a letter addressed to Dr. D. T. MacDougall, president of the society, this week, which stated that they were disturbed to learn of the resignation of Jules Kahofer, and "dissatisfied with certain other aspects of the conduct of the work of our local chapter." They requested that he call a general meeting and explain the following points:

"Why our Humane Society, one of the oldest in the state, is also one of the poorest, shabbiest, and least efficient;

"Why nothing is done to obtain from the councils of Monterey, Carmel, and Pacific Grove the annual increase of funds made necessary by higher costs of living and by the increase of work over an extended area and among a greatly increased pet population;

"Why nothing is done to increase membership, to arouse general interest and obtain donations;

"Why the workers of the Monterey County Humane Society are outrageously underpaid and overworked;

"Why such members of the board of directors as do not comply with the by-laws governing attendance at meetings continue to be regarded as 'members';

"Why members of a board of directors so indifferent towards the aims of the Humane Society as to allow present conditions to exist, without any apparent effort at improvement, should not be relieved forthwith of the burden of directorship, and replaced by persons whose situations and affiliations enable them to devote unhampered energies to the cause of animal welfare;

"To decide what means are to be taken to remedy matters."

Signatures on the letter are: Noel Sullivan, Dr. Ralph S. Weston, Helen R. Weston, Katherin Kronholm, Claude Kinnoull, Margery Fontana, Carl Hansen, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Gladys Kingsland Dixon, Mrs. Thomas Bunn, Ruth A. Winslow, Ruth McElroy, Helen Zanetta, E. FILM SOCIETY MOVIES

Music of the great pianist-composer, Ignace Paderewski, who plays in his only motion picture appearance will be presented Friday and Saturday night by the Carmel Film Society as its selection this week at the Woman's Club at 7:00 and 9:15.

Paderewski plays Chopin's Polonaise in A Flat Major, his own Minuet in G Major, Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody, and Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata.

Sport Notes

for Carmel. Avila, New Monterey hurler, had a no-hitter going into the fifth, but it was spoiled by Bob Updike's single.

Topflight pitching by Johnny DeAmaral and Henry Overin played a large part in the phenomenal success of the Carmel lads this summer. Both boys turned in seasoned performances throughout the league campaign. Steady catching by Bill Daniels added a great deal to the confidence of the hurling duo.

The champions' roster includes: Lee Laugenour, Steve Whitaker, Joe Beard, Brent Millen, Bob Updike, John DeAmaral, Bill Daniels, Stu Emery, Butch Laugenour, Neils Reimers, and Henry Overin.

RICKETTS GETS WIN OVER CYO VARSITY

Johnny DeAmaral outsteadied Bob Price in the Ricketts-CYO varsity softball clash to earn a well-deserved 3-1 win over the hustling and willing CYO aggregation. Although the Sports tallied three times in the game their first run came when Jimmy Hare picked out a waist-high fast ball and lashed it well over the fence in left field. The Sports added two more in the fifth to sew up the contest.

CYO JUNIORS RACK UP SEASIDE, 4 TO 2

In one of the best kids' games seen at Sunset in some time, the Muscutt-led CYO juniors put out a well-played game to throttle the Seaside Juniors last Monday night. Steady pitching by Paul Ricketson coupled with the rifle arm of Don Canham proved too tough an obstacle for the little Seaside softballers. Paul dished out only four hits and Canham threw out all the Seaside base-stealers who made attempts to pilfer second base. Besides being a good guardian against larceny, Canham blasted a four-master which helped to subdue the visitors. Buddy DeAmaral, Seaside pitcher, also allowed four hits but made the mistake of bunching them in the fourth inning when the CYO got on the books for three runs.

SUNSET TIGERS BEAT MONTEREY—ALMOST

Things looked pretty good for Unk Hillyer's Sunset Tigers in the first of the seventh inning of their nocturnal clash with Monterey last Monday night, but something happened in the last of the frame to dampen their spirits. The little Tigers had assumed a 6-3 lead in the top of the seventh when Merle Pitman singled, Craig Chapman and Bert walked, and Mike Mosolf hit for a grand-slam circuit blow. However, the little Monterey sprouts came back charging in the bottom of the last frame to tally four times and cop the verdict.

The little Sunset sprouts turned in some fine plays during the game and showed vast improvement over their attempts earlier in the season. Swinging and throwing for the Sunset Tigers are: Merle Pitman, Mark Hildebrand, John Thompson, Pat Grimshaw, Craig Chapman, Donn Sipes, Bert, Bob Wallace, Jimmy Conrad, Paul Fratessa, Dick Ricketson, John Chase, and Mike Mosolf.

Monterey And The Convention Of 1849

publishers, C. Achimer Music Co.

Of course the prisoners lacked one thing—wine. Their board and room was free, or paid for in part by the 50 adobe bricks they made each day, but no red wine came with this, and wine was almost a necessity with the Californians—at least they thought so. However, jugs of wine were undoubtedly slipped in at night through the bars of the jail by trusted friends.

The Indians were the chief lawbreakers, especially in running off horses and cattle; but imprisonment in Colton's jail with Spaniards, Mexicans, Americans, English, and other Indians was no great hardship to them—most of them hadn't much to do anyway, and a month or so in Monterey, fed and housed at public expense was no great hardship. Yet, they began to respect the powerful arm of American law, which seemed to reach everywhere.

Colton tells of an American lieutenant on his way to San Francisco seeing an Indian riding a horse without a saddle or bridle, a pretty sure indication that he had stolen it, ordered him to report to the alcalde of Monterey. When the Indian appeared and made clear why he had come, Colton sentenced him to a month at public labor, gave him a pair of trousers and blouse to replace his tattered garments, and sent him away with a plug of tobacco. The next day he saw the Indian busy making adobe bricks out in the sunshine, proud of his new clothes, and contentedly chewing his cud of tobacco.

Again, one day the Alcalde met an Indian he had frequently punished for drunkenness wandering about the streets of Monterey sober, and forlorn. On asking his trouble, the Indian replied that his girl had refused to marry him unless he stayed sober for a month, and he was having trouble doing that. Then he begged the Alcalde to help him as he desperately wanted that girl. Colton gave him 30 days at public labor, where he could get no rum, and when he was released the wedding took place, and there was a fandango among the Indians lasting several days.

It was hard to get the Monterey men to work for wages. None cared to do so as long as he had a pound of beef, a pint of beans, and some wine or aguardiente; and the Indians weren't much better, wanting money only to buy brandy and to gamble. To them an old blanket was just as good as a new one; shirts and pants could be patched many many times; and their food was in every field and stream. Hunger was unknown in those days, and needs were few; there was little incentive to work and every occasion possible was taken for a fandango or merienda.

For the Montereyans there was a dance once a week at the Custom House to which everyone was invited to attend. There were dances whenever a Mexican returned from the battle front—some resistance to the Americans continued in the south and back country. At times when a child died there were festivities, all rejoicing that it was going directly to heaven since it had had no chance to sin. At the theater, where old melodramas are now given, the young people gathered to rehearse and produce plays, often of a religious character in which they were assisted by the parish priests. The young men, singly or in groups serenaded their beloveds, and the nights were filled with music.

Yes, Colton found Monterey gay. The Montereyans had rather dance than eat—not even an earthquake would stop them dancing, he said. Though he made no attempt to stop dancing, he did try to check gambling. How earnest he was in this it is hard to tell, for it was largely through fines assessed on the gamblers, besides his taxes on the "grog shops" that financed the building of Colton Hall; and then California has a softening effect even upon New Englanders.

Thus, the Montereyans lived during the years 1846, 1847, and 1848, under the control of a foreign nation and a Yankee heretic, very much as they had lived for more than half a century. But the discovery of gold in 1848 at the south fork of the American River was soon to bring to an abrupt end what some people have called "The Golden Age of California," and to change completely the manner of life of the Californians. The effect on Monterey of the Gold Rush, and the calling of delegates to draw up a constitution and to ask the United States Congress for admission into the Union as a state in order better to protect life and property from the torrent of heterogeneous humanity pouring into California as a result of this discovery, will be the subjects of later articles.

Plans Completed For Homes Tour For Guide Dog Benefit

At a meeting held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Stanton plans were completed for the Carmel Valley Homes and Garden Tour which will take place Wednesday, August 10, for the benefit of Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Edison Holt, Mrs. Sanford Griffin, Noel Sullivan and Ellis Speigl, whose homes and gardens will be opened for the tour.

Mrs. Nelson Leoni is in charge of the buffet luncheon to be served at the Rancho Del Monte Country Club. The president and several officers of the organization will be down from San Francisco for lunch. They will bring two graduates from the training school at San Rafael and their dogs. One is a charming woman who recently modelled in a fashion show with her dog in Fresno. Earl F. Reinke, executive secretary of Guide Dogs, will give a short talk on their work during the luncheon hours, 12 to 2 o'clock.

Among those working for the success of the day are: Mrs. Sidney Fish, Mrs. Harry Toulmin, Mrs. Paul Winslow, Mrs. Tom Bunn, Mrs. Richard Collins, Mrs. Paul Clark, Mrs. Fred Godwin, Mrs. Frances Hudgins, Miss Helen Heavey, Miss Virginia Jones, Mrs.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Gardens are people. Just as one must feed and groom a child, so one must feed and groom a garden. New home owners who have just established a nice little garden are sometimes called away and leave their gardens in the hands of friends or paid caretakers. Instructions are "Please keep my garden watered" . . . period. This is equivalent to saying "Give my child all the water it wants." Under these instructions there won't be much of the child left. There won't be any garden left either.

Patio gardens need special care. Litter and dirt accumulate in a hurry and at least a weekly sweeping is needed. Pansies must be kept picked to insure future blooming; vines should be trained. All sorts of things are required to keep the garden looking as it looked when the happy owner departed. July and August are the very dickens on growing things. Mildew is beginning to threaten, rust is moving in. White fly, thrip, aphis and all the pests in captivity are on the way to us. Gardens should have fungus spray this time of year and the battle against the enemy horde should be well under way.

Frequently, when new gardens are left in capable hands, those capable hands shudder at the manner of planting. All the world has heard me howl over poor soil and the fact that the uninformed have a fallacious belief that black soil is fertile soil. Nothing could be "wronger." Valuable citrus shrubs, such as Meyers Lemons, that have been stuck in tubs or pots, in a bed of our famous black sand, throw me into hysterics. My sixth sense can hear these poor plants screaming for help. Oh yes, I talk to growing things like crazy, but then, most eager gardeners are slightly "tetched."

What can a poor caretaker do when he has to water a hillside where recently planted shrubs have been placed. It can't be done, and the conscientious caretaker takes his own time to form saucers beneath the shrubs to retain water. In the end, where only a hose has been contracted for, in must come hoe, rake, spray, fertilizers for which the caretaker must pay himself.

This is a plea to all home owners who are about to depart to parts unknown, to have a heart and leave at least a small fund upon which this friend, or professional, may lean. Otherwise, Mr. Home Owner is in for a bad shock when he sees his once pristine garden grown old and shabby just-like-that.

Mays Also Has Something To Say Anent The Buck And John Controversy

Paul Mays, Carmel painter temporarily exiled in the east but painting away industriously nevertheless, enters a little tardily into the exchange of courtesies recently engaged in through the medium of these pages by two other Carmel artists, Abel "Buck" Warshawsky and John Cunningham, tardiness due to the slowness of second class mail by which The Pine Cone traveled to him in his transplanted abode.

A letter arrived from him last week.

Doylestown, Pa.
July 29, 1949

My Dear Wilma Cook:

We were refreshed by a cool breeze from the Pacific . . . smelling of pine cones, sandhills by the western sea . . . trade winds blowing inland across kelp beds . . . when two editions of the weekly issued on Dolores street came in our mail box in Buck's country!

At once we were launched into a controversy . . . the leading article . . . challenging the position of traditional, conservative art and modern art.

In this summer season of electric storms and thunder showers, of mist and mellow fruitfulness, when the huge stone barns of this country (Buck's) are being stacked with harvest from the fields of grain and the vast galleries of art in the cities are almost deserted (I enclose a clipping which has a bearing on the argument), and when one stands before the formidable mural paintings of Henri Matisse in the galleries of the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Fairmont Parkway, there is no doubt in one's mind of the distinction and the special quality of the line and color in the works of Henri Matisse. So much space has to be covered when a visiting artist from Carmel strides through one gallery after another. There is only time to pause, and contemplate one small painting, and this was resplendent, luminous 25 by 30 in oil painting by Maurice Utrillo.

There was work to be done. I had to hasten on and out to Buck's country with its dense green forests and golden wheat fields and stately farmhouses, set far back at the end of long lanes . . . and then on to Manhattan, New York, and NOW . . . How fortunate I am to be able to finish my job in New York City and return to Doylestown, the county seat of Buck's and to set up my drawing board on the hilltop by the old Fountain House, 1748, Old York Road.

Yours sincerely,
Paul Mays.

Centennial time calls for a special outfit, whether it be a ruffly peasant style or a quaint old-fashioned calico. And HARRIET DUNCAN'S smart shop is the place to go for all sorts of stylish cottons suitable for wear at Centennial time right on through 'til winter. The special half-price sale on cottons brings you peasant blouses and trim little white pique weskits at prices you can offord and in styles you'll love to wear. Full peasant skirts come in a variety of color combinations and materials, from trim striped denims to bold prints and plaids. More summer styles are to be had at HARRIET DUNCAN'S in the new Hawaiian prints, in bright reds, black and aqua. The pert Paki coat sports a turned up mandarin collar, and there is the matching sunback dress, skirt, and lounging pajamas. HARRIET DUNCAN'S is at Lincoln and Sixth streets.

Newest feature down at LA MAISONETTE is the special dollar dinner, which will be welcome news for you regular diners-out! Fernand tells us that the meal is a regular full course dinner, with four entrees to choose from (and one of his special French dishes will always be included in the choice.) A mighty convenient way to save and at the same time to enjoy Fernand's delicious French cuisine! Savory soups, subtly flavored sauces, and expertly prepared French dishes such as frog's legs "Poulette" (with wine, onions, and all the rest) are just a part of the mouth watering treat in store for you at LA MAISONETTE. The expert touch of Fernand can be brought to your home, too, for his catering service offers you the same savory items that are on the regular menu. And Munthe Einsted works in cooperation with this service to bring oyu the finest of her cookies, pastries, and added "touches." For dining at its best, stop by LA MAISONETTE at Lincoln and Sixth. Phone 79.

The CARMEL FLOOR COVERING CO. is right up to the minute with the latest thing in floor and wall materials. It's the new cork tile, Kencork. Decorative and practical as can be, this cork tile provides an excellent insulation, comfortable walking surface, and a durability that makes it exceptionally resistant to wear. Kencork offers you all the amazing features of cork; it's absolutely waterproof so wet bare feet or spilled liquids can't stain it. There's no buckling or warping, either, and dropped dishes aren't so likely to break as on other surfaces. Cork tile will appeal to your artistic sense, too, for it comes in attractive browns and tans, and is laid in a decorative pattern which will blend with your decor. The CARMEL FLOOR COVERING CO. is the place to go for Kencork or for any type of floor covering material or advice. Expert installation is available, too, so why not stop by soon? San Carlos between Ocean and Seventh or phone 2146-W.

Here's a wonderful chance for you gals to save on more of those "back to school" items! It's the big August sale that's going on at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S, with lots of amazing reductions on all sorts of wardrobe necessities. Slips in the nationally famous Miss Swank line have been reduced to only $2.95, with both the fagotted trim or plunge neck and lace trim styles to be had. Cameron cotton tailored blouses are another item marked for a big saving. Now available at only $1.95, these classic white shirts come with plain tailored or Peter Pan collar. And for night time, the ever-popular Tommies broadcloth pajamas are reduced to $3.95, with the selection including clever prints and plain colors trimmed in dainty eyelet embroidery. Tommiecoats are on sale, too, at $2.95, so the smart gal will want to stock up for the school year right now. PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S location is Ocean and San Carlos streets.

Deliciously different is a snack you should try, soon as possible. It's SPUDNUTS! Now this fresh and light confection isn't a nut, of course, but it's not a potato either (although fresh potatoes go into the makings.) It's not so confusing as it may sound, for the SPUDNUT resembles a golden brown doughnut (but it's twice as good as the ordinary variety.) STEWART'S SPUDNUT SHOP at 936 Fremont in Seaside is headquarters for all sorts of variations of the SPUDNUT, including sugared, glazed, maple, maple nut, chocolate nut and orange. And soon-to-be added to the list are the new chocolate cocoanut and orange cocoanut. If you're out Fremont Extension way, stop and sample one, at STEWART'S SPUDNUT SHOP, phone 7981.

You gourmets in search of something new and different in eating will certainly find it at Rayfield's LOUISIANA ROOM in La Ribera Hotel. Here the menu centers around Creole cooking that's really out of the ordinary. Under the skilled direction of a real Louisianan, the many famed Southern dishes are prepared and served in an atmosphere of southern enchantment. Colorfully redecorated, the dining room furnishes the perfect surrounding for a meal featuring such Creole delicacies as Chicken Papillote, smoked pork chop, and crepes suzettes. And genuine Louisiana gumbo is an added specialty served with every meal. Daily noon buffets at the LOUISIANA ROOM give you a chance to try some of everything, and patio service on sunny days is a welcome feature for hungry swimmers. (Rumor has it, too, that something "fashionable" is going to happen in the evenings very soon, with Mary Rodin, hostess and popular model in the spotlight.) The LOUISIANA ROOM is at Lincoln and Sixth streets, or phone 32-W for reservations.

Particular pooches will wag their tails when they hear the news that JEZEBEL'S DOG HOUSE now has the new Kennel Grind horse meat. At only 19c a pound, this coarse grind contains just the correct amount of added fat for a healthy pup. Regular grind meat is to be had for 25c a pound. And JEZEBEL'S has something else new; they're now stocking a complete line of Nutrena pet foods. These are the pet supplies that are so popular in Southern California, and now JEZEBEL'S has them for us here. The pet beauty salon at the shop is good news, too. Bathing, plucking, and stripping services save you trouble and assure a professional job. And the pickup and delivery service saves you more time! JEZEBEL'S location is Seventh street between Dolores and San Carlos, phone 725-W.

Fall and school time are in the air over at the COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP where we discovered a marvelous array of back to school favorites that will be "musts" in your wardrobe. Plaids in every autumn hue are combined with a crisp white pique trim in those beloved cottons for school wear. Greens and browns are set off this season by a touch of white in a collar or perky bow at the neck, and full skirts feature gathers or soft pleats. Two piece interest in pink or blue plaid cotton emphasizes style from the Peter Pan collar right down to the smart little skirt. For cooler weather wear, the COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP is ready again with Camel Fleece shorty coats, sporting gay plaid linings and matching scarves. Oatmeal tan or a soft gray are the colors of these versatile shorties. And you're going to love the new fall skirts! Wool plaids, tweeds, checks, in pleated, gored, and pencil slim styles are the perfect complements to any wardrobe. So hie yourself to COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP, 489 Alvarado in Monterey for a fall wardrobe that's tops in style.

Hand carved boxes, intriguing as they are beautiful, are the big news this week from the VAGABOND'S CORNER. Carved walnut and exquisite Italian inlay are real savings now for they're drastically reduced to close out at only $5 (were up to $15!) See them at the VAGABOND'S CORNER, in the Pine Inn Patio, Carmel.

HOLMAN'S BOOK DEN is in the mood of Centennial time with a brand new book dealing with California history. It's the new Wells Fargo, Advancing the American Frontier, a must for those who are especially interested in California past and present. The book, written by Edward Hungerford, tells the story of a great western enterprise which began during the gold rush, pioneered during the development of California, and is today a proseprous part of American banking and transportation. All the events in the formation of the Wells Fargo Co. from 1851 to the present are told in this 320 page volume, published by Random House. A wealth of illustrations includes many historical pictures and maps. This new volume is at HOLMAN'S BOOK DEN, main floor at Holman's in Pacific Grove.

Everybody's talking about the big August sale down at TOWN AND COUNTRY INTERIORS! Bargains galore include a selection of beautiful French and American scarves, closing out for as low as $5, from prices formerly up to $20. Pure silk, chiffons, in colors and designs to go with new fall outfits would make these perfect gifts both now or at Christmas time. Handbags and evening bags are marked down to half price, including excise tax, giving you a better than 50% saving, and all jewelry is to be had for a 20% reduction. Compacts and perfumes, too, are on sale to make room for fall merchandise, so here's your chance to save on accessories for yourself, and all sorts of gifts. TOWN AND COUNTRY INTERIORS is located in the lobby of the Pine Inn.

Chrysanthemums are here at FLOR DE MONTEREY! Sooner than you'd expect, maybe, these favorite blossoms are just ready and waiting to add gaiety and color to your home. The regular big size mums are to be had, of course, and in addition there are the more unusual Fiji (Japanese) cyrsanthemums. FLOR DE MONTEREY greets the coming of autumn with dahlias, too, in bronze shades that will certainly remind you of fall. Other gay blossoms include stocks, snap dragons, tiger lilies, and all the season's favorites for brightness where it's needed most. Just think of how much a bowl of the right flowers would add to your living room, then stop by the FLOR DE MONTEREY and take home an armful. You'll find the FLOR DE MONTEREY at 217 Franklin street in Monterey, next to the entrance to the Professional Building. Phone 7885.

You needn't have a single worry about frizzy hair ends once you've decided on a permanent at WOODARD'S HAIRSTYLIST for your new fall "do!" The secret of Mr. Woodard's own special method is the constant oil bath each curl receives during the wave, giving both protection and an oil treatment. Soft, natural-looking curls are the result. Hair cutting and styling are another specialty with WOODARD'S HAIRSTYLIST. Contour shaping designs your hair to fit your head and you! Drop by very soon and make an appointment for your new fall permanent. Location is the mezzanine floor of the San Carlos Hotel, phone 7996.

Die Fledermaus, Movie Sponsored By Woman's Club

On four afternoons and three evenings beginning Saturday afternoon, August 6, the Carmel Woman's Club is presenting the beautiful color motion picture based on the famous operetta by Johann Strauss, Die Fledermaus. The film will be shown Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday afternons at 2:30, and Sunday, Monday and Tuesday evenings at 8:00 o'clock.

The film was directed by Geza Von Bolvary of Two Hearts in Waltz Time fame. Dorit Kreysler and Hans Brausewetter sing the leads in a premiere of the famous operetta with musical arrangement by Alois Melichar.

It is reported that the film uses a new color process which reproduces the most delicate shadings of the lavish costumes and decor of the period.

Tickets to all showings will be sold at the door by members of the club. All proceeds will go toward reducing the debt on the new club building, Mrs. F. E. Vaughn, president of the Carmel Woman's Club, announced.

THE DOME

By A. G. Warshawsky

Meeting one's fellow craftsmen, talking shop, and exchanging ideas in general, was the main diversion at the Dome. There was, however, a more serious-minded group, which foregathered there, sometimes of an afternoon, but certainly every evening, round a table especially reserved for it in the back room, raised by a few steps above the level of the billiard room where the more boisterous customers diverted themselves. Even the proximity of the kitchen and its pungent odors could not detract this coterie from its all-absorbing occupation—poker. They seldom broke silence, except to stifle a sigh or mutter a curse, for on the issue of a game might depend a month's rent; and sometimes much more was at stake. So great was their passion for the game, that on any day of the week and at any season of the year, some portion of the poker club was in session. Only rarely would an outsider be admitted to their circle; and for years the group remained unchanged. The fact that there never arose any serious quarrel among the members and that their friendship remained intact despite gains and losses, speaks much for the ethics and comradeship of the players.

Otto Ganzel, painter and sculptor, an ancien of the Quarter, Rene Billotti, an American sculptor of Italian origin, as his name suggests, and a handsome young devil, Cheever Dunning, the poet, tall, thin, ascetic, with a great resemblance to Robert Louis Stevenson; Alexander, an expert copyist of old masters, dark and swarthy with the features of an American Indian, Ashford, small and blond, familiarly nicknamed demi-blonde (i.e., "a half measure of light beer"), a tenor called Buckley and nicknamed Caruso, and my friend Kleiminger were usually to be seen in the poker corner, nervously awaiting the opening of the game. At intervals they would feverishly bite into a sandwich or sip a glass of beer.

To the older men the play was a great relaxation after concentrated work in the studio, but to many a youngster at the Dome, living on a small allowance, which his family often stinted itself to send him so that he might have a chance to develop his talent, card playing brought disaster. After a year or two in Paris, many a talented lad has returned to his home with no benefit from his stay abroad, and only an acquired habit of drinking, gambling, and loafing in cafes.

Paris and cafe life is no place for the weak. But for those who had the proper moral fibre, the Dome was a great and valuable experience. It was a school of good fellowship and a leveller of values. Not only did it give the young men an opportunity of meeting on informal terms men who had "arrived" in their art, but it also showed the latter from their very human sides. To hear the big fellows talk as humbly and often as discouragingly about their own accomplishments as the merest tyro, was in itself a valuable moral lesson to the beginner and a proof that there is no easy going for those who are in earnest about their art.

Friesecke, Miller, Max Bohm, and Robert McCameron, then the leader of this little group, were always ready to help the young artists with advice and criticism, going to visit them in their studios or their rooms.

My first acquaintance with Lionel Waldon, marine painter, was made early one spring on the terrace of the Dome. Considerably over six feet tall, he appeared of very normal size when seated. He was generally bent over like a jackknife, and it was only when he stood up, that it looked as if his head would strike the awning. He was blondish, with a thick Van Dyck beard, and always complained of being tired. The shortest sentences he would drawl out in an interminable fashion.

Waldon told me that a few days before an American had been to his studio and wished to acquire a large marine picture. As he was leaving for America, he suggested that Walden take his high-power motor car in exchange for the picture, and the latter had accepted. The car was now in a shed close by his studio, but the embarrassing point was that Walden lacked the money to buy the gasoline for running the machine. He wanted a group to pitch in and share expenses, and he would act as chauffeur.

If ever there was a genuine specimen of an American bohemian, it was Lionel Walden. Although his pictures were marketable and his reputation assured, he was always dans la puree (in the soup.) One day a friend of his brought some wealthy people who were very anxious to purchase some of his work, to his studio, where Walden was busy fixing up an old bicycle. Though he received his visitors quite politely, he assured them he had nothing to show. Dozens of canvases were lined up around the studio, but he was too preoccupied with his old bike to take the time even to sell a picture. He spent many months doing some murals for a little hotel in Beg Meil, off the coast of Brittany, in return for which he was to have board and lodging at this hotel for all the years to come. But although Waldden had been haunting this locality for years and had made it his favorite sketching ground, once his mural work was finished, he never returned to Beg Meil.

Another typical Walden story refers to the occasion when he was decorated by the French Government with the Legion of Honour. According to the custom, the document announcing the conferring of this honor was carried to him by a Garde Municipal, togged out in all his finery of burnished helmet and white gloves, and mounted on a prancing steed. When the martial messenger arrived at the humble building where Walden had his studio, and presented his document, Walden was in a quandary, for he lacked the wherewithal to give the customary "pourboire" to the imposing messenger. So in his predicament, the recipient of the coveted honor had recourse to his concierge, who loaned him a louis.

But Paris, where his generous and lovable nature procured him many friends, eventually ceased to be Walden's habitat. Having been invited by a wealthy planter friend from Honolulu to accompany him on a world cruise on his yacht, Walden, on arrived at Hawaii was so enchanted with the Sandwich Islands, that he made his home there.

Another interesting character whose acquaintance I made at the Dome was Max Bohm, the painter, originally from Cleveland. Bohm was a man of huge girth and massive proportions, and everything about him suggested great power and poise. He was very cordial in his greeting and invited me to see his work—dark, sombre pictures, but powerfully composed and conceived. Bohm's success, like that of many other fine painters, was mostly artistic, for financial returns were small. It was only after his death that his pictures began to fetch large sums.

Bohm, who would take his evening apertif at the Dome, was fonder of talking shop than any other painter I have known. I gained his good graces the day I remarked that one of my favorite pictures at the Louvre was Titian's The Man with the Glove, which Bohm held to be the finest painting in that collection.

Miller conducted a successful class for American students in Paris and also had a large following at Giverney, where he painted during the summer. He was a very clever technician and a most able teacher. Unfortunately, his students acquired a lot of superficial tricks and mannerisms, and for a while there was an epidemic of little Millers to be seen at every exhibition.

Friesecke, a neighbor of Miller's at Giverney, a shy person, who did very sensitive and delicate work, was very kind to young painters and went out of his way to befriend the lonely. Both he and Miller were often to be found at the Dome at the apertif hour before dinner.

VARIATION ON A SHAKESPEAREAN THEME

After the good things go,
After the soul is a waste,
After the mind is sick
We still endure, and must grow.
The Healer makes no haste;
Forgetfulness is not quick;
Oblivion is not soon.
The puppet-master of Hell
Animates, and is deft.
Beneath the visiting moon,
God, how remarkable

MINOR CHARACTERS FROM SHAKESPEARE

1. A Gardener
("Richard II", Act 3, Sc. 4.)

Well, no! my mind don't run in allegories.
These apricots, in compass of a pale,
Appeal to me less by their dangling glories
Than mixed with cream and sticking to the ribs.
And I don't like His Nibs . . .
In fact I cotton more to dirty stories,
And, even better, to a mug of ale.

But when a woman's white as alabaster,
And still don't know how far the thing has gone—
Not, as I say, that I go for my master,
But his good wife . . . well, you know what I mean . . .
His queen is still my Queen,
And ladies didn't ought to drink disaster
Without a spice of beauty sprinkled on—

And so, although I'm not exactly witty,
I calculated I could spare her pain
By talking of the garden real pretty,
In such a way that home-truths should appear
For her to overhear.
And now that she is posting to the city
I don't mind telling you it was a strain.

2. Osric
("Hamlet", Act 5, Sc. 2)

Uncovered, Fortinbras with heavy breast
Looks down upon the features of the dead;
Yet, as the angels sing you to your rest,
My hat, my lord, is firmly on my head.

And the concernancy? I dare to say
I am the author of your loss of light;
For, as one pestered by a popinjay,
You threw yourself into a loaded fight,
Which, if I had not been a water-fly,
You might have had the patience to misgive.
Simply the thing you were has made you die;
Simply the thing I am shall make me live.

—Alastair W. R. Miller

Yaltah Menuhin, pianist, who plays a sonata recital here in the Sunset School Auditorium on Saturday evening of next week, August 13, with Israel Baker, violinist, is not altogether a stranger to Carmel. She was here with her husband, Benjamin Rolfe, in the early '40s, when one of the tenderest and most beautiful of all the war romances had culminated in their elopement.

Jim Cooke remembers her well, for he met her, he says, when she was running away from a dog, a golden-haired, incredibly lovely slip of a girl, taking refuge in their patio. Conversation followed, and when Jim invited her into Ruth's studio and the sight of the piano drew an exclamation from her, he asked her if she played. "A little," she admitted, running supple fingers over the keys, and before she knew it she was lost in such playing as only the born "natural" artist can make, such playing as the studio had never known before. When Jim looked out the window, passers-by were standing, listening, neighbors were taking occasion to work in their gardens, and the sharp ring of the telephone called to him to answer the question as to what station he had on.

Then Ruth came in, and they found that their guest was the fabled Yaltah Menuhin, who had just become Yaltah Menuhin Rolfe. The studio was made open to her and day after day she played, sometimes leaving a lovely poem in tribute to the hospitality, for among her other gifts, Yaltah writes sensitive, imaginative verses.

When in her childhood in Paris, studying with Marcel Ciampi, she met all the musical celebrities who gathered so often in the Menuhin home. There she took her turn with her brother, Yehudi, and her sister, Hepzibah, at playing chamber music with such as Pierre Monteux, Enesco, Adolph Busch, and others, all of whom considered her rarely gifted.

Yehudi Menuhin, the world-famous brother, will be in the audience in Carmel, as will be many musicians from the bay area.

Israel Baker, joint artist with Yaltah Menuhin, has won honors in Chicago and the east and in South America for his superior violin playing. The two artists offer a program which promises to be an outstanding memory in Carmel's long list of distinguished evenings of music.

Boyd Looking For Bigger Theatre For Opera Season

There will not be a Grand Opera season in the Forest Theater this fall, according to Hal Boyd, local manager for the Pacific Opera Company which was to have put on performances there August 19, 20 and 21.

Boyd adds that he is negotiating for a site with a larger seating capacity so that the operas can be presented for $1.00 admission charge.

"Arturo Casiglia, director of the Pacific Opera Company, has for many years been convinced that grand opera is enjoyed by the great majority of people. Consequently admission prices should be adjusted to meet their purses," Boyd said. "The expense of producing opera by a professional company using a professional orchestra can be met only where a large seating capacity is available. A September date for the operas is under consideration."

60 Days Allowed To Offer Objections To Building Code

The County Supervisors gave "60 days' grace" at their meeting Monday when they voted a "minimum" building code to become effective November 1.

A representation from all areas of the county thronged the supervisors' chambers offering objections and suggestions for improvement of the proposed building code. All parties seemed in agreement that some sort of code should be adopted, but not the one under consideration without revision.

The supervisors set a time limit of 60 days for citizens and civic groups to get written objections before the code committee, leaving 30 days for the committee to study the proposals and rewrite the code.

Hatlos Are Back

Home at last from the Bohemian Club doings are Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hatlo. The whole affair was again a tremendous success, with celebrities swarming all over the place. However, Mrs. Hatlo came home reflecting, with a trace of what might be called righteous feminine bitterness, that it is a man's world after all—women, of course, are not allowed to be Bohemians. Nevertheless, it does not pay to underestimate the power of a woman, for staying at the Hatlo house, which is situated across the river from the Grove, was singer James Melton's accompanist. And each day who should cross the river to borrow the services of said accompanist but Lauritz Melchior, who had to keep up on his practicing. So daily Mrs. Hatlo was present at a concert by one of the finest voices in opera. And for free! There may be some justice after all.

Padre Trails Show

The Padre Trails Camera Club August contest will be held on Saturday, August 6, at 7:30, at the Forest Hill Hotel in Pacific Grove.

Judging the photographs and color slides, all of which are strictly amateur work, will be Florence Lockwood, Carmel portraitist. The subject of the contest is Children.

The club which now has a membership of over 50, is made up of camera enthusiasts from all over the Peninsula. At these contests, prizes are awarded as a certain number of points to each winner, and then at the final exhibition held in the latter part of the year, points are added up and final winners are announced, when material prizes are given. Any amateur photographer 21 years of age or older, is welcome to join, and everyone is invited to come to the exhibition.

Delegates to Conference

Miss Nancy J. McGill of All Saints' Church, Miss Ruth Dunlap of the Church of the Wayfarer, and Miss Margarette Smith of Hay's Chapel in Seaside are enrolling this afternoon at the M. E. M. conference at Asilomar for the five-day session. The girls are sponsored by the Carmel Missionary Society and were selected from the youth groups of the churches.

This conference is one of the largest to meet annually at Asilomar, where it has assembled each summer for almost 40 years, except for the period during the war when the grounds were in the hands of the Federal government. Outstanding leaders in missionary and church work conduct interdenominational classes and discussion groups on needs and methods of missions in this country and in foreign fields. Meetings are open to Peninsula residents on payment of a small daily fee. The Missionary Education Movement was organized at Lake George, New York, around 1905, with some 28 denominations participating in its program.

Legion Barbecue

Approximately 150 Legionnaires of Carmel Post 512, their families and guests, gathered Sunday afternoon in the barbecue grove of the Rancho Leguna Seca and ate their way through an excellent steak dinner.

It was due to the generosity of Captain W. J. Chitarin that this site was made available to the Legion.

Enough thanks cannot be accorded Tom Riley, who not only furnished the succulent steaks but also officiated at the pits with the assistance of Carl Rasmussen, Haskell Warren and Don Hale.

To the ladies, Mrs. Maude Childers, past president of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. James Kelsey, must go kudos for their efforts with the salad. Also to Kip Silva, who donated the watermelons.

At the soft drink bar, soda pop and beer were dispensed by George Knapp and Al Rico. According to Commander Jim Kelsey, the barbecue was a gastronomical and financial success.

A movie, a birthday dinner, and a super-dandy cake took up the better part of Friday afternoon for Andy Andrews and his three guests. Andy, the son of Colonel and Mrs. F. J. The cake, a "must" for any birthday party, was a real western cake, with brands and the names of all the horses so familiar to the juvenile world—Trigger, Silver, Pal, etc. Each guest picked out his favorite horse, and ate him! And there to do just that were Kent Walker, Gordon Parker, Jr., and Jon Konigshofer, Jr. Strictly a stag affair.

Bandage Material Needed

The women's groups from Wayfarer and All Saints' Churches who meet next Tuesday to sew on bandages for the American Mission to Lepers are in need of old sheets, pillowslips, and other white household linen to tear up and make into bandages, as they have used up all their material. Contributions may be left at the downstairs room of the Church of the Wayfarer at any time between now and 3:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and it will be greatly appreciated. Mrs. Lesla Dixon is chairman of the group, which meets from 10 to 3 on the second Tuesday each month, with a pot-luck lunch—and often a birthday cake—to break the stretch of work. The bandages are sent by the American Mission to Lepers to mission leper hospitals in foreign lands.

Dinner Party for Mrs. Woodward

Mrs. Ray Woodward, formerly of Carmel, was entertained Sunday evening at an informal dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Alberto. Also present were a few of Mrs. Woodward's old Carmel acquaintances.

Future Carmelites

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Robinson of Decatur, Illinois, have taken the Michel Steenhaudt house while Michel is abroad. The Robinsons, who were newspaper owners in Decatur, plan to make Carmel their permanent home.

Expected in the Fall

Carmel friends of Mrs. Renee Schickele will be interested to know that she plans to be a visitor in town sometime in the fall. She is now vacationing with her son, Professor Rainier Schickele, in Wyoming, and later plans to visit another son, Hans Schickele, who is an architect in Berkeley.

Off to Paris

John Cunningham's brother, Jim, who has been visiting with the Cunninghams for the past month, left Monday for Paris to continue his studies in art.

Flew In From Washington

Mrs. J. R. Brandenburg has as guests in her new house on Scenic Drive, her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Brandenburg and their two boys, David Joseph and John Gifford. They all flew in from their home in Washington, D. C., last Wednesday, and will be in Carmel until October 1.

Off To Canada

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. McCormick, their son, Tim, and Dr. McCormick's sister, Miss Alma McCormick, left Friday for Canada, where they plan to spend a month on Vancouver Island. All the McCormicks are avid fishermen, and have dedicated their entire trip to the pursuit of their favorite sport. Also, while up there, they expect to see Admiral and Mrs. James Ashton, who are also taking a vacation in Canada.

Theater-Going in S. F.

A visitor in San Francisco last week was Pat Cunningham. While there she was lucky enough to get to see A Street Car Named Desire, Brigadoon, and one of the outstanding movies of the year, Red Shoes. That seems like entertainment enough for a week for anybody. And of course, there was time for the art exhibits at the Legion of Honor and the De Young Museum.

Guests for the Fords

Coming up Friday to spend the weekend with the Byington Fords will be Mrs. Ford's daughter, Mrs. Roe Lindgren, and her young son, Richard Byington, known very affectionately as "R. B." Mrs. Lindgren will return to her home in the south Sunday, but R. B. will be the Fords' extremely welcomed guest for a month.

Valley Folk Dancers

All Carmel Valley people interested in folk dancing are invited to come tonight to the Farm Center at 7:30 o'clock to help form a club. At the initial meeting last Sunday a name, Los Rancheros, was selected.

Off to Beverly Hills

Mrs. Florence Sharon Brown of Fourth and Perry Newberry, left Tuesday for Beverly Hills where she will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ashbrook. She plans to be gone at least a month.

Reunion Beach Party

Mary Lodmel of San Francisco, who has been visiting Sheila O'Brien here in town, acted as "hostess" at a good old-fashioned beach party last Thursday night. The main object of the party was reunion of old friends, and those who were present to enjoy the company and good food were: Diane Rolando, Ann Rigdon, June Kocher, Helen Kocher, Helen Prosser, Benita Updyke, Judy and Margot Campbell, Carol Hildebrand, and, of course, Mary Lodmel.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA FIRE DEPARTMENT
A Volunteer Organization
August 2, 1949

Editor, Carmel Pine Cone,
Dear Mrs. Cook:

The Carmel Volunteer Fire Department wishes to take this opportunity to thank you for your very fine assistance to us in our recent appeal for funds to carry on our activities. The fine publicity you gave us helped materially in making the drive a success.

We wish also to thank, through you, the many residents and property owners of Carmel who responded so generously. Their kindness has made it possible for us to complete the projects we had planned.

Yours very truly,
Carmel Volunteer Fire Dept.

Madam—

As a taxpayer in Carmel (Unincorporated, that is) I'm wondering if through your paper I could inquire just how quaint a federal post office can be and still be within government regulations?

I realize that most of the "oh-so-different" customs in this town make it the charming place that it is, but there seems to me a place short of which this should stop. One of these places is the post office.

From every quarter, one hears complaints about the Carmel office, even from business concerns, but no one seems to do anything about it. And why not, may I ask?

My most recent complaint is over the non-delivery of mail to my rural box, that is addressed to my house guests in my care. They have been told that they must fill out pink forms in order to get their mail, or some such nonsense.

Now, what I want to know is why this is required in Carmel and no place else? I spend most of my time at another place (St. Helena, Rt. 2, Box 286) on a rural route, and never have I had to clear with the post office as to my house guest's mail. As long as letters are addressed specifically as to box and number, and in my care; everywhere I've ever lived (but Carmel) they've been delivered, regardless of the name of the addressee.

Every time I have a house guest, either in my absence or during my own stay in Carmel, I do not feel called upon to notify the postmaster, and I would appreciate an explanation (if you can get one) not only for myself but the other long suffering residents in the area. Thank you.

Very truly yours,
Delta Ross Olsen.

Wedding Plans

Becky Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Bell, will become the bride of John Booth Westover on Sunday, August 7, at 4 p. m. Becky's grandfather, Reverend Samuel Wood, will read the service, which will be held at the Church of the Wayfarer. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Bell of Sonora.

Becky's grandmother, Mrs. Samuel Wood, made her lovely wedding gown of white slipper satin with lace yoke and a small train. She will wear a long lace veil and carry a white spray. Maid of honor will be Jan Masten, and the bridesmaids, who will wear pastel taffeta gowns and carry old-fashioned nosegays, will be Peggy Riker and Betty Plaxton. Becky's cousins, Emile and Maryanna Anderson, will be flower girls. Bob Mullnix will serve as best man, while ushers will be Ted LaFleur and Franklin Bell, Becky's brother.

Becky, who is a graduate of Carmel high school, will continue her studies at Monterey Peninsula College, where she will be a sophomore.

John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Westover, is a graduate of La Grande high school in La Grande, Oregon. Following two years of service in the Navy, he attended Cal Tech. He is now employed at the air field by Standard Oil, but will also continue to work for the Del Monte Aviation company, for whom he just recently completed work for his commercial pilot's license.

The church is being decorated by four of Becky's friends, Joan Harrington, Carol Bedau, Marlene Becar and Kathie von Meier. Flowers for the church, and the corsages, are being made up and furnished by Erma Zampeti of Monterey.

Willard Terrill

Willard W. Terrill died at his home in Fresno on July 30 after a long illness. He had been retired from business, but was active in sportsmen's affairs to the extent that he was cofounder and presiden of the Fresno County Sportsmen's Club, and a life member of the National Rifle Association.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nina H. Terrill, and a son, Milton W. Terrill.

Mr. Terrill had many friends in Carmel, made during the many springs and summers he and Mrs. Terrill used to spend in their home in Carmel Woods. They had been regular Carmel visitors for the past eight years.

TWO CAR CRASH

As a result of a two-car clash involving Richard Hendricks, 23, and his wife, Susan, 21, who reside between Fourth and Fifth on Guadalupe street in Carmel, and Philip D. Klinefelter, 33, of 639 E. Alisal, Salinas, at approximately 7 o'clock Sunday evening, all three were taken to the Monterey Hospital.

Hendricks was driving a 1939 Ford sedan and Mr. Klinefelter a Pontiac sedan. Mrs. Hendricks suffered minor injuries, but her husband is more seriously hurt and is still in the hospital.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that the Trustees of the Harrison Memorial Library, Carmel-by-the-Sea, will receive sealed bids for furnishing all labor, material, transportation and services for the Alterations and Additions to the Harrison Memorial Library, Ocean and Lincoln Avenue, Carmel-by-the Sea, California, until 4:00 o'clock P. M., on the 19th of August, 1949, at the offices of the City Clerk, Carmel-by-the-Sea, California.

Each bid shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications and other Contract Documents now on file with the City Clerk, City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, and at the office of the Architect, Robert R. Jones, A. I. A., Carmel, California.

Copies of the documents may be obtained by depositing $15.00 with Robert R. Jones, A. I. A. Architect, for each set of Contract Documents so obtained. The amount of the deposit for one set of Documents will be refunded to each bidder or intended bidder, who returns such sets of plans and documents in good condition within three days after the opening of bids.

It shall be mandatory upon the contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the current union scale of wages to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Each bid shall be made out on a bid form to be obtained from the City Clerk, City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, or at the office of Robert R. Jones, A. I. A. Architect, Carmel-by-the-Sea, California.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check payable to the Trustees of the Harrison Memorial Library, or a satisfactory bid bond in favor of the Trustees of the Harrison Memorial Library, executed by the bidder and a surety company in an amount equal to five per cent of the bid.

The said check or bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will execute the contract in conformity with the Form of Contract included in the Contract Documents and furnish bonds as specified within three days after the notification of the award of the contract to the bidder.

The Trustees of the Harrison Memorial Library reserves the right to reject any and all bids or waive any informalities in the bidding.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

Dated July 29, 1949.

WANNA SING FOR THE CENTENNIAL?

The Centennial chorus is making a plea for more male voices. The chorus, which is under the preliminary direction of R. E. Manhire, needs more timber and volume than it has at the present time. Practice is at 7:45, Monday evenings, at the Pacific Grove high school auditorium. The deadline for getting names on the program has been set for August 8. Further information can be received by calling Monterey 21883 or 7896. Final direction of the chorus will be under Wendell Otey, who is composer and director of all the centennial music.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Spirit" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, August 7, with the Golden Text taken from Psalms: "O Lord, thou hast searched me, and known me. . . . Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence?" (139:1, 7).

The sermon will be comprised of citations from the Bible and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, among which are the following:

Luke: "And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy. And Jesus answering spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day? And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go" (14:2-4).

Science and Health: Consciousness constructs a better body when faith in matter has been conquered. Correct material belief by spiritual understanding, and Spirit will form you anew" p. 425).

Sets Go Up For Pageant; Cast Is Announced

Entire cast rehearsals of the Centennial Pageant will begin right away at the Monterey College grounds where sets have been prepared and it is expected that floodlights will have been installed so that the cast can rehearse under the same conditions in which they will produce the pageant.

Two permanent sets and one adjustable set are to be used; the central set is being made to represent Colton Hall interior, Larkin House, and others; on the left of this is a Monterey style house in which the chorus and musicians can be housed out of sight of the audience; and on the extreme right is a portion of a street of old Monterey with the Larkin House as its main feature. Between these, in the central set, is an open space where out-of-door activities such as riots and fights with the Indians will be enacted.

A nearly complete cast is as follows: Norman Romwall, narrator; Major Frederick Stevens, Capt. Sutter; Wm. Fortier, Gov. Sola; Noel Sullivan, Father Serra; Lloyd Weer, Commodore Sloat; Ruth Warshawsky, Manuela; T. Eby, Capt. Fremont; Roland Scheffler, Thos. Larkin, Consul; Larry Rose, Lt. Gillespie; David Eldridge, Walter Colton; H. Hekin, Capt. of the Lavant; Ken Smith, Cappy Rogers; Dion Burchell, Steve, cattleman; Pop Smith, witness; Charles Killiam, cattleman Bob Ryan; A. Griffin, Semple; J. O'Connell, Gov. Riley; Bert Sharp, Jose; Art Paxton, Shannon (delegate), and a settler; K. D. Mathiot, Portola; Hal Boyd, frontiersman; and Glen Kearns, messenger from the mine.
